

Mountain Music, Stories and Dance

Jeff Robbins - "Entertainer and Educator"

From the hills of southwestern Virginia, Jeff Robbins grew up with the authentic mountain sounds that he has taken to countless fairs and festivals, two World's Fairs, television, as well as schools and libraries throughout the United States. Jeff performed on the steps of the Smithsonian for the Library of Congress. He also opened for the Norman Rockwell exhibit in Vero Beach, FL. 2014 marked Jeff's 32nd year touring with over 7000 performances.

Make an instrument
With Jeff at your
Chilhowie Apple Festival

Before audiences of any age or background, Jeff permits no passivity in his listeners, quickly involving them in sing-a-longs and simple square dances.

Jeff holds a Bachelor Degree with a Major in Music and a Minor in Sociology from Warren Wilson College in Black Mountain, N.C. His first major project was working on the production team that brought the number 1 rated show at the time, "Fire on the Mountain," to the Nashville Network.

The band will grow larger with the local talent at the
Chilhowie Apple Festival

Jeff has 11 recordings, one of which, "Shake Your Little Foot" features Doc and Merle Watson. This album has recently been re-released on, "Little King Records."